Are you a prepper? You better be, because the end of the world is around the corner. It is around the corner of 5th Avenue and Duct Tape Street NY, NY. According to the National Center for Survey Of Chances/NCfSoC/ a prepper has 88 percent higher chance of survival when the world comes to an end, than a citizen who is neglecting the rules of self-reliance and is not preparing. A prepper stocks water, MRE's, guns and canned goods and feels ready, a HARDCORE prepper learns to run and reads the news:

"Scientists warn about the aftermath of the Venus Transit. The sun dispersed fireballs towards the earth. China reportedly angry about dwindling hamburger shipments from US. China allegedly directs a 'copy of the fireballs' to the epicenter in LA, doubling the effect of the fireballs."

The MOST HARDCORE prepper collects duct tapes, because he knows duct tape is the currency of the future, if there is any....

Run for your life, collect duct tapes and build your camp. Do it with the free to download The EndApp, which challenges your reflexes, offers infinite game play with progressive level design and multiple environments. Jump over the burned down police cars and reach the hidden duct tape while running in the deserted city. You will be guided through the 28 days with 5 challenges each day. And as a bonus it makes your day 135, 8 percent better.

This is an exclusive advice from TheEndApp team, all preppers themselves. They have met while they were running from danger. After a while they started talking about the 'viruses taking over', about 'insects spreading', 'solar exposure' and realized they have to educate others on how to prepare for TheEnd and created The End app. enjoy

Another exclusive advise from TheEndApp team for you is to also print the review you are about to write because, in case of a major, worldwide, long-lasting, irreversible electricity outage you want to have it in hand.
